

FASET Edge Protection Training

Newbies

Those wishing to become qualified Edge Protection installers who have little, or no experience need to attend the one-day FASET Edge Protection Course. This covers theory & practical work from a MEWP. A Trainee card may be applied for at this stage.

After the course the learner needs to log a minimum 200 hours on site (under supervision) and provide evidence of this in the form of a Portfolio. This is forwarded to the Trainer for assessment.

This will be followed up by a Zoom discussion to go through the contents of the Portfolio.

If the Trainer is satisfied that the learner has demonstrated experience and knowledge, then the learner is signed off and may apply for a 5 year blue CSCS card.

If not, another Portfolio of 3 jobs needs to be submitted, reassessed followed by another Zoom discussion.

Nearly Newbies

Prior to attending the course, those with “some” experience need to forward videos & pictures from 3 jobs of their Edge Protection work. The Trainer will discuss these with the learner on the day of the course.

If the Trainer is satisfied, the learner will log 100 hours of Edge Protection installation on site (under supervision), and forward a Portfolio of 3 jobs to the Trainer for assessment. This will be followed up by a Zoom discussion to go through the contents of the Portfolio.

If the Trainer is satisfied that the learner has demonstrated experience and knowledge, then the learner is signed off and may apply for a 5 year blue CSCS card.

If not satisfied, another Portfolio of 3 jobs needs to be submitted and approved prior to being signed off.

Experienced Workers

Those with “much” experience or other relevant qualifications, should provide evidence to the Trainer prior to attending the course. If the Trainer is satisfied with the learners performance during the course, the learner needs to provide a Portfolio of 3 jobs prior to being signed off.

If not satisfied, the learner will need to log 100 hours work and then create another Portfolio of 3 jobs and submit this to the Trainer for approval prior to being signed off.

The Portfolio

The Portfolio is a way of demonstrating skills & experience through work on jobs (minimum 6 for new learners)

It must be broad, relevant, and clearly the work of the learner.

It must include a collection of videos and pictures (that will form the basis of the Zoom discussion).

For each job submitted, a Learner Experience Work Record (LEWR) form needs to be completed and supported with RAMS and site induction register.
